

<http://pla.gov.au/pla-news-page1497756>

SHIPPING.

Monday
Tuesday
Do
Wednesday
Me
Tuesday
oc
Wednesday
10.
Tuesday
12.
Thursday
Jan
S Bourk
£358
outsta
£263
Baron

FIVE
four h
Jame
Carrol
custod
for sev given
Mas
having streets was so
Sus
stolen and w viour for the
Two
Mr. M

ness to the pa which

THE
as fir
March
Mr. B
Mr. B
J. Car
and M

Brown Will
Ann,
without George
disorder
Alfred
prison
assault appear the shi struck this off
above suma.

Will
belong victed
a fine rison p
John
Anne,
Willia
till Mo
David
on suag
Colum
duction
Geor

MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1857.

drunk
a week
sailing ant's h was the tore up
struck
pay a f fine not
Fred
Anne, p
brand y for four

A Gey
city an advertis
on Frid
gentlen
Daniel
T. Win

Brought
E. C. N
worth,
The
after re Magistr
ing had
Mr. I
Act of were de cases r
many lists, an regular nienes
found alpha particu

impos
it woul
magistr
came w consult conven roster a
he trust
the rest
Lette
Thornt
being a cede to meeting

effect of said the suggested formed
Police
The att
that of the rose
months twice d

Mr. [redacted] did not [redacted] days [redacted] no cred [redacted] during [redacted] and Mr [redacted] from 10 [redacted] Mr. [redacted] liament [redacted] office, [redacted] attende [redacted] so on th [redacted] by the [redacted] A list [redacted]

names
which would sent, 1
most of
The

THE ne
trict af

quire a colony occupie situate about that ha diggers
unfavo
gold ha
last fro rich an
the oth

the win
of Go smaller fine sp pipecl
new di
Oliver
Mudge
journ conce
New E

before, she could not have commanded the increase in her sales which has ultimately been realised from the gold-mines, and the large quantities of the carcasses of the precious metal from Australia, we actually transported thirty millions of refined sovereigns, besides a much larger quantity of gold dust, and the gold ore which shipped off in such profuse abundance for the Melbourne market, and the gold-mines of the colony, have only yielded about 6 millions in gold altogether. After the gold discoveries there were struck off in three years not less than 25 millions of gold, and the gold-mines of the colony have yielded only 1 million and on the spot of its production.

Monday Morning.

We have news from Melbourne, from the City of Sydney, to the 26th instant.

The Customs' revenue collected during the week ending 21st March amounted to £23,754, 17s. The Argus of the 25th says:—

The entire of gold for exportation passed at the Custom House amounted to 17,363 ounces, and the quantity of silver for exportation was for ship sent by the Kent, for London. The Justice

The flour market is without animation, and there are no transactions to record. Consumers content themselves with supplying present necessities, having apparently no confidence in the continuance of present quotations. The recent arrivals in the U. S. have added to our stocks of Adelaide flour and grain. In honor of the high rates which we quoted on Monday are fully met.

The total of gold shipped by the Kent for London was 62,221 ozs. 9 dwts.

Regarding the state of business, the Age of 26th instant says,—

Business to-day has not presented any peculiar features. The market has been rather to some extent interfered with by the news, and aided in throwing a hell over commercial affairs. The four sales have been effected at from £13 10s. to £18. Oats and wheat have been sold at 10s. 6d. and 11s. 6d. respectively. The prices of 6d. The transactions in brandy are not important, and do not justify any special notice.

From Adelaide we have news to the 20th current. We annex, from the South Australian Register the latest commercial intelligence :—

Notwithstanding the continued arrival of news from Melbourne and Adelaide, the policy of the Government has not yet been done here the last few days, at prices almost as high as the market has been able to bear. The Government has not yet fixed determination to hold for higher rates than never before.

I note that our exports of wheat and flour have fallen off considerably during the last fortnight, and very little is in course of shipment. In oats and barley the transactions are small. Hops have advanced 1d per bushel.

more's cargo from Hong Kong and Singapore, which was sold at the auction of Messrs. Wickett and Co., on Monday at auction. The attendance was very good, and, considering the flatness of business generally, the bidding was good. The following prices were realized:—For chests of camgong, £2 5s to 25 5s; and a low quality at $4 16s; halves, £2 8s to £2 13 6d; boxes, 15s 6d to 20s. Sugar, dark, £20 5s to £29 17 6d. Coffee, 9d to 9d. White pepper, 10s. Dago, 3d. Nutmegs, 3s. Manila rope, £77 3s. The remainder

On the 19th, fine flour, at the mills, was quoted at £14 10s to £15 per ton; wheat, 5s 5s 3d per bushel.

AMERICA: GIFT TO ENGLAND'S QUEEN.—Queen Victoria is a woman, a lady, and the chief of the State, and it would be impossible for her to take part in the unwonted ceremony of Tuesday last without many a strange thought. She received a present rarely matched in its grace and spontaneous kindness: and from whom? From a

"rebels," with whom her grandfather, George III, found it so difficult to be reconciled. On the deck of her own ship, the Resolute, she was the guest; her host was a plain sailor. Unquestionably no small degree of republican sobriety marked the mode of Captain Hartstien's address. He said:—"Allow me to welcome your Majesty on board the Resolute."

and in obedience to the will of my countrymen and of the President of the United States, restore her to you, not only as an evidence of friendly feeling to your sovereignty, but as a token of love, admiration, and respect to your Majesty personally." The Queen of the British Empire might have been struck with the dramatic emphasis which placed "my countrymen" even before "the President of the United States." The "welcome" given to her Majesty was stripped of some of the hospitality which she might have perhaps encountered the officers of almost any navy in Europe; in Spain, perhaps, we may except two—the Sardinian and the absence of imperial state, there must have been to Queen Victoria a peculiar delight and satisfaction in the whole ceremony. Before her stood a fair representative of the republic; for Captain Hays represents its energies, its directness and its independence: yet he is a por-ask herself at that moment, What man can be higher than a gentleman? Captain Hartstede came to do a graceful duty, and he did it unquestionably with a simplicity that is the very perfection of courtesy. He had come to present to her "a token of love, admiration, and respect;" and, in order to have been sweeping the Atlantic with a force unknown for years, in a sea not unfamiliar with the fearful storms which we know so well. I stood before her, therefore, the representative of a powerful republic, the representative of the most manly profession in the world, and the representative from one State to another, not only to the Queen sovereign, but to herself "personally;" and in the little expression it may be said that the personal relations of Queen Victoria, the representative woman of the British Empire, are restored to the other Anglo-Saxon family across the Atlantic. Other great states unable to achieve what the American republic has just accomplished. The sovereigns of those states possess a command of means which no man in America can enjoy. The mere caprice of an Emperor could have bought up the Resolute, could have ordered her to be fitted at the expense of himself, could have sent her back by one of his obedient servants; and probably, on such an occasion, the ceremony on the deck would have been somewhat more studied in its courtliness. Nay, we will not doubt that such an Emperor, if he pleased, might have chosen a manly, chivalrous officer to do his duty with grace and zest. Yet how could Queen Victoria have

"France" had presented to her a gift? How could she discriminate with perfect certainty between the court ceremony of her welcome, and the heartfelt desire to welcome and to please her. It literally the people of America, "my countrymen," who have made her this gift, she feels sure.

teration of craft or sycophancy can have mingled with the friendliness; and the "personal" feeling which is avowed is thoroughly genuine. How can the gift be returned? It is returned already; every gift handsomely and spontaneously presented is returned when it is cordially and sympathetically

A CLEVER TRICK.—The Courrier des Etats Un gives the following account of an arrest which took place on board the steamer Arago, the day before she left New York for Europe. On the 28th of October a person named Louis Albrecht presented himself to of watches, to complete the purchase of a number of those articles which he had looked out on some of his previous visits. Having selected what would suit him, he requested the invoice, which would amount to $2105 dollars, to be made out. Albrecht was accompanied by a young man about 17 or 18 who was Fauche as his nephew. When the bargain was concluded, M. Fauche was about to put the watches in their cases, when Albrecht stopped him by saying that he had brought a small box with compartments ready to place them in. When the watches had been so arranged, and the case afterwards tied and sealed, string, Albrecht requested to be allowed to put a seal on it, saying that he would leave it, and send his nephew to pay the money and fetch it. At this moment the nephew requested a shopman to go out and buy some cigars. M. Fauche was thus left alone, and when he turned round to get a light and wax to seal the case, Albrecht, sub-another exactly similar, which he had kept concealed under his cloak. When the seal had been affixed, and the purchaser had left, M. Fauche took up the case and put it in a place of safety, when a suspicion entered his mind, and, gently lifting up the corner of the cover, he saw that the case contained nothing but small stones. M. Fauche immediately discovered the tion to the police ; but all their searches were in vain until the day before the departure of the Arago, when on M. Fauche going on board with a friend who was proceeding to England, he perceived his customer. He immediately collared him, and gave him into custody. The man's luggage was landed, and on it being searched at his house, a quantity of gold was sum of 200 dollars. It appeared that, on leaving the office of M. Fauche, Albrecht went to New Orleans where he sold part of the spoil, and then returned to New York to get off by the Arago. He keeps a millinery and embroidery shop at Havre.

www.nla.gov.au/nla.news-pa out manger cases.

and two guest rooms and kitchen, and two ponds each per year. through t-Bany H and is 75 feet by 17 feet. A well of water supplies rental is £78 per year.
Terms at sale.

